The IBM Austin Research Laboratory is pleased to announce the start of the registration period for the fifth annual Austin Conference on Energy-Efficient Design (ACEED 2007). We encourage researchers, industry and government experts to attend and discuss ideas on power management, low-power techniques, methodologies, and energy-efficient computing. The conference will be held at the UT JJ Jake Pickle Research Commons Center.

Highlights

The program includes an IBM Systems Keynote and talks by distinguished speakers from academia, EPA and industry. Additional elements include a panel session on increasing variability and its impact on power consumption and a poster session showcasing new exciting, research on power management.

Registration

Same as previous years, there is no cost for registration, but space is limited. So we encourage you to register as early as possible. Send an email to aceed@us.ibm.com with subject "Registration" to receive further instructions.

Poster submission

The poster submission deadline has been extended to February 2nd.

Submissions should have a 1-page overview of the poster. Including a rough sketch of the poster and/or a URL related to the poster is also recommended. Please use ASCII text or Adobe PDF format. Submissions should be sent to aceed@us.ibm.com.
